The investment objective of the GBW Alternative All-Weather Growth Fund is to generate capital appreciation while achieving a positive rate of return over a rolling five-year period. The fund is designed to navigate different market conditions and deliver consistent returns regardless of the prevailing economic climate.

Protected equities and bonds are at the core of the fund. This basket is comprised of diversified bonds and equity ETFs that typically grow with the economy. The funds strategically use the options market to capture income or increase protection from significant market corrections. By employing a collared options strategy around a growing market, volatility can be reduced.

Features

- Balanced absolute return strategy targeting 6–9% annual returns, with the standard deviation of returns expected to be in the 7–10% range.
- All-Weather style with diversification to include exposure to growing sectors as a hedge against inflation that seeks to preserve purchasing power over time.
- A dynamic asset allocation model allows for an active strategy to take advantage of changing global macro trends.
- Portfolio Managers Geoff Wilson and David McCulla have each dedicated over 30 and 25 years, respectively, managing funds at major Canadian Financial Institutions.

Benefits

- Active risk management that seeks to trim the tails, smooth the journey, and minimize harmful drawdowns.
- The fund encourages a medium-term horizon to allow for greater participation in the overall growth of the economy.
- Daily liquidity, no performance fees.

The investment objective of the GBW Alternative Short-Term Growth Fund is to generate capital appreciation while achieving a positive rate of return over a rolling two-year period. The fund is designed to navigate different market conditions and deliver consistent returns regardless of the prevailing economic climate.

Protected equities and bonds are at the core of the fund. This basket is comprised of diversified bonds and equity ETFs that typically grow with the economy. The funds strategically use the options market to capture income or increase protection from significant market corrections. By employing a collared options strategy around a growing market, volatility can be reduced.

Features

- Conservative absolute return strategy targeting 5–7% annual returns with standard deviation of returns expected to be in the 5–7% range.
- The fund seeks to maximize growth within conservative risk restraints while mitigating volatility to levels comparable with fixed income.
- A dynamic asset allocation model allows for an active strategy to take advantage of changing global macro trends.
- Portfolio Managers Geoff Wilson and David McCulla have each dedicated over 30 and 25 years, respectively, managing funds at major Canadian Financial Institutions.

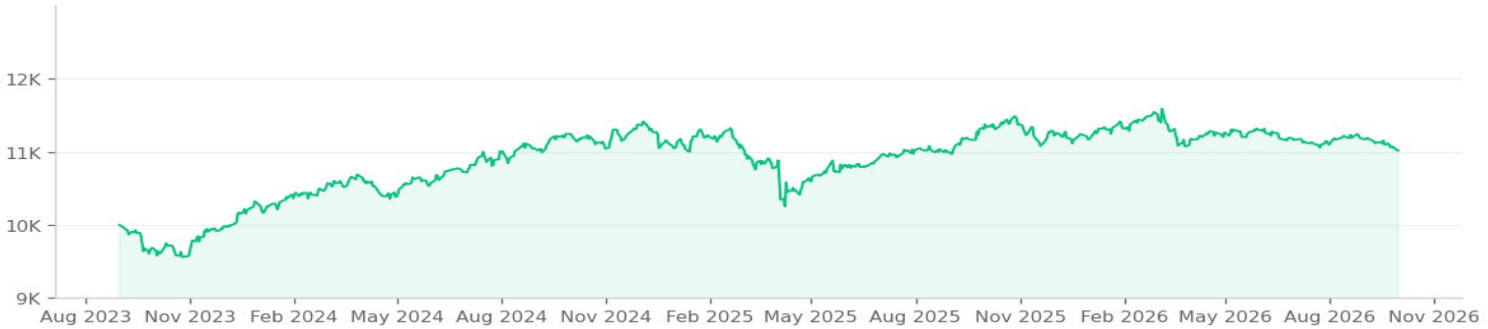

Benefits

- Active risk management that seeks to trim the tails, smooth the journey, and minimize harmful drawdowns.
- Focus on reducing downside capture while seeking to maximize participation in long-term growth of the economy.
- Daily liquidity, no performance fees.
